

I just wanted to quickly send a note of displeasure to you regarding broadcast ownership. I'm a little concerned when an agency that is supposed to be representing the public looks like it's beginning to represent corporations when it comes to mass media. Although competition does not always mean we receive better information, at least consumers are allowed to sift through and make their own decisions. A decision that could be lost if one company is allowed to monopolize any media. Please reconsider.